STRENGTHENING POLICE RESPONSE AND ATTENTION TO VICTIMS OF VIOLENCE BASED CRIMES

Diploma in prevention, investigation of femicide and police action

Purpose of the "Diploma in prevention, investigation of femicide and police action"

- The violence against women and girls must stop if we work together and create integral solutions.
- Through the Diploma, we have been training police officers to reinforce their duties to prevent and research gender related killed women, in Mexico the criminal type is femicide.
- The training is offered to police officers with operational and/or investigative functions, some of them are part of police specialized in caring for victims of gender-based violence. Heads of Victims units specialized victims, and deputy directors of different areas within their institutions as well.

Hybrid methodology to training police officers

- The launch of the Diploma was in January 2021, it began with an international seminar followed by face-to-face lessons at the facilities of the Police Museum in Mexico City.
- Initially, all the studies in the program were designed to offer a face-to-face modality. However, for the pandemic, we created a hybrid methodology which includes:
 - ✓ Face-to-face lesson (offered from January to February)
 - ✓ Virtual modality lessons (during the pandemic)
 - ✓ Virtual reality is a tool to reinforce the knowledge acquired during the Diploma. This tool will be part of the final test, each participant must identify what decisions will be made to prevent a case of femicidal violence.

Interdisciplinary approach

- To reflect about the socio-cultural factors from the femicidal violence but also, point out the responsibility that the State has to stop them

Sociolegal approach

Gender and intersectional perspective

Techniques to release the stress

Ethic approach

- We cannot understand how the violence against women it is emerge from the patriarchy system with an extensive comprehensive the gender and intersectionality perspective
- Both perspective are fundamental to implement the rules and act with due diligence in security institutions

- Police officers are exposed to several stress factors
- We must attend the mental health to guarantee proper attention to victims
- These techniques help to manage the burnout

- Police officers are agents of change.
- From this approach, the work of each police officer is recognized, highlighting their role in the protection and guarantee of people's rights, where their action is vital to avoid impunity.
